My name is Patrice Keys, my academic life stretches over many, many years. I was part of the Head Start program when it began, and I had the opportunity to attend preschool, which operated from a local church in my community. My primary and secondary school experience was very exciting and rewarding. I was a in the gifted learning program, and I participated in sports and foreign language (Cantonese Chinese). I had a brother Shawn who had a passion for education and world exploration. He always encouraged me to earn a college degree, he passed away from cancer as he pursued his BA but his words are etched in my memory and I have been chasing to realize this goal for my life.

I am now a licensed foster parent and a full-time student at Contra Costa Community College who has been (consistently this time) enrolled over the past three semesters maintaining a 3.0 and higher GPA. I am a single mom of three school age children (two biological and one foster) determined to continue to pursue academic excellence as well as a purpose filled life for myself and my children during what is the most trying time of my life. My financial state has suffered significantly since my divorce, nevertheless, my resourcefulness and persistence has resulted in me consulting with counselors who shared the knowledge of scholarships with me so that I can continue to pursue my academic goals. My community contributions are extensive and any money rewarded to me would be funneled back into the community in considerably ways.

In the next five years I hope to be living out my best life and reaping the benefits of my huge efforts. This would include celebrating my 50th birthday, graduating from college with a AA degree in Human Health Services, earning my certificate in Early Child Development (of which I currently have 18 units completed) and transferring to a 4 year university. Receiving the Longwood Scholarship will help me achieve my ultimate goal of running a Family Life Center.
